

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Bangladesh Health Watch extends its deepest thanks to the Advisory Committee members, who contributed their insight, experience and wisdom.

We are grateful to the working group members who despite their tight work schedules made time to attend the numerous meetings that took place on a regular basis over the ensuing months following the initiation of the study. They served in their personal capacities and made invaluable inputs in modifying the concept of the study and reviewing critically the materials and research findings and contributed ideas in putting together the report.

We gratefully acknowledge the efforts of the researchers of the primary studies who were under constant pressure to complete their work in the shortest possible time. And the help given by members of the technical committee who met from time to time to fine tune the study tools and oversee the technical aspects of the studies.

BRAC, Research and Evaluation Division took forward the daunting task of the national study on the density and profile of the Healthcare Providers and James P. Grant School of Public Health, BRAC University looked into the study on the quality of care while Research Training and Management International (RTM International) carried out the other two studies on selected healthcare providers and their supply.

Of course, the research study would not have been possible without the cooperation of the communities and the healthcare providers who contributed their time to be part of the study. We would also like to thank the government organizations (Institute of Health Technology, Medical Assistants Training Schools, Nursing Schools) and NGOs that were studied such as NGO Service Delivery Programme, Urban Primary Health Care Project, Gonoshasthya Kendra, and BRAC.

We are extremely grateful to Dr. Lincoln Chen for his valuable advice on developing the concept of the BHW 2007 proposal. We especially acknowledge the contribution of Dr. Rounaq Jahan, Dr. Zakir Hussain, Dr. M. Q-K. Talukder, Mr. Faruque Ahmed, Dr. A. M. Zakir Hussain, Dr. Yasmine Ahmed and Dr. Jahangir Haider. Their prompt and critical feedback enabled us to fill the gaps in the report. We also express our deepest appreciation to Dr. Hilary Standing (Institute of Development Studies, Sussex, UK) and Ms. Adrienne Germain (President International Women's Health Coalition, New York) for their extensive review, insightful suggestions and detailed editing of the report.

Behind all these activities has been the unstinting support, guidance and encouragement of Dr. F.H. Abed, the Founder and Chair of BRAC, whose vision for a healthy Bangladesh for all, continues to inspire us constantly.

Last but not the least we are extremely grateful to our donor Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (Sida). Particular to mention in this regard are Her Excellency Britt Hagström, Ambassador of Sweden, Dr. Britta Nordström, First Secretary and Mr. Syed Khaled Ahsan, Senior Programme Officer (Health).
